1. Principles and objectives

1.1. As one of its central objectives, novobanco commits itself to fully comply with the series of legal and regulatory provisions by which it is bound. The novobanco also undertakes to observe recommendations from Portuguese and European sources. novobanco believes that the objective of compliance is crucial to protect novobanco's reputation and for the effective protection of its assets.

1.2. In order to comply with this objective, novobanco implements adequate procedures to prevent risk and to detect possible non-compliance situations with its legal and regulatory duties. In this context, it is essential for novobanco to be able to receive communications of irregularities that, as a complement to the internal systems implemented, make it possible to promptly identify possible non-compliance situations and resolve them.

1.3. To that end, novobanco implements specific, independent, autonomous and adequate means of receiving, processing and filing communications of serious irregularities relating to its administration, accounting organisation and internal supervision, and of serious indications of violations of the legal and regulatory duties to which it is bound.

1.4. This Policy establishes the series of internal rules and procedures regarding the aforementioned means, in compliance with the applicable legislation and regulations, in particular Article 115.^o-X of the General Regime of Credit Institutions and Financial Companies (the "RGICSF"), Article 35 of Bank of Portugal Notice no. 3/2020, Article 305-F of the Securities Code (the "CVM"), Article 20 of Law no. 83/2017, of August 18th establishing measures to combat money laundering and terrorist financing (the "AMLTF") and Law no. 93/2021, of December 20th establishing the general regime of protection of persons who report breaches.

2. Application of the Policy to the novobanco Group entities

3. Concept of irregularity

3.1. For the purposes of this Policy, an Irregularity is any facts or circumstances demonstrating a breach has been committed, is being committed or whose occurrence is very likely, in whole or in part, of any legal or regulatory duty or internal governance provision to which it is bound, regardless of the causes, context and those involved in the facts or circumstances evidencing the Irregularity. Any attempt to conceal such breaches is also considered an Irregularity.

- c) Failure to comply with anti-money laundering and terrorist financing duties resulting from the AMLTF, Bank of Portugal Notice no. 1/2022, CMVM Regulation no. 2/2020 and other regulations implementing the AMLTF and internally defined policies and procedures, and controls;

Employees who, by virtue of the duties they perform at novobanco, in the areas of internal audit, risk management and compliance, including with regard to anti-money laundering and terrorist financing, have the duty to communicate serious Irregularities of which they become aware and that relate to the administration, accounting organisation and internal supervision of novobanco or that correspond to serious indications of breach of duties provided for in the RGICSF or in Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 that are likely to place novobanco or an entity that is part of the novobanco Group in a situation of financial imbalance or that relate to possible violations of the AMLTF, the regulations that implement it and the policies and procedures and controls defined internally.

5.2. Pursuant to the law, this Policy ensures that obligatory communications are submitted to the Compliance Committee and to the Financial Affairs (Audit) Committee of the General and Supervisory Board, in accordance with their regulations, and in accordance with the procedures provided for and described in point 8 below.

In cases where the seriousness of the communication justifies it, the meeting takes place within the shortest possible timeframe. These communications are documented in the form of an accurate minute of the meeting, offering the reporting person the opportunity to check, rectify, and agree with the minute of the meeting by signing it.

6.4. The whistleblower of Irregularities in writing is free to choose to communicate anonymously or to subscribe/identify themselves, in which case they may, at any time, request that their identity is not transmitted within the organization to the individuals involved in handling and analysing the communication.

6.5. Any employee who, under any circumstance, receives a communication of Irregularity must forward it as soon as possible by letter addressed to the Compliance Officer and sent to the address Campus do Novobanco, Avenida Doutor Mário Soares, Taguspark, Edifício 1, Piso 2, Ala C, 2740-119 Porto Salvo or by e-mail via irregularidades@novobanco.pt.

6.6. If the Irregularity refers to Compliance matters or implicates an employee of the Compliance Department or the Chairperson of the General and Supervisory Board, the communication should be sent by letter to the Chairperson of the Compliance Committee of the General Supervisory Board to the address Campus do Novobanco, Avenida Doutor Mário Soares, Taguspark, Edifício 1, Piso 2, Ala A, 2740-119 Porto Salvo, and it is up to the latter to analyse it and, if necessary, to resort to the Internal Audit Department or any other appropriate department within novobanco.

7. Good faith and content of the communications

7.1. All communications must be made in good faith and the whistleblower must have, at the time of reporting, a sufficient level of certainty regarding the Irregularity, so that the investigation has a sufficient degree of reasonableness underpinning it.

7.2. The communication submitted shall specify the Irregularity in question, the facts that constitute it and respective grounds. To the extent possible, it should indicate the date of the occurrence and, if viable, be accompanied by the documents in the whistleblower's possession that prove or demonstrate the Irregularity.

7.3. The use of the available communication channels in disregard of 7.1 and 7.2 above or for purposes other than communicating Irregularities may constitute an offence of various kinds, including disciplinary, civil or criminal.

8. Handling and analysis of the communications received

8.1. The communications received are subject to an analysis, after which, if it is concluded that they are minimally sustained, an assessment is made as to whether there are sufficient grounds for an investigation, and, depending on the result, the Compliance Department either:

- a) Draws up a reasoned report with justification for not taking any action; or
- b) Takes the steps it deems necessary to obtain evidence. To this end, it may request the intervention of the Internal Audit Department, other departments or third parties, under the terms of the law.

8.2. In the event an investigation has been carried out following the analysis of the communication, a reasoned internal report is prepared containing the conclusions as to the actual existence of the Irregularity, the measures taken during the investigation (including, if applicable, the report to external competent authorities) and the measures to be taken in the event the existence of an Irregularity is effectively demonstrated.

8.3. Whenever requested by the whistleblower, their anonymity is guaranteed in any transmission of information, to all those involved in the process.

8.4. The communicated Irregularities are transmitted to the superiors of the targeted persons, where such transmission does not jeopardise the purposes of the communication procedure and, where appropriate, are transmitted to the respective competent supervisory authority.

8.5. Within the maximum period of seven days after receiving a written Irregularity communication, and as long as the whistleblower identifies themselves and/or the channel used allows it, an acknowledgement of receipt of the communication shall be sent to the whistleblower.

8.6. Within fifteen days of the conclusion of the procedure for analysing the communication a reply is sent to the whistleblower, as long as the whistleblower identifies themselves and/or the channel used allows it. This reply or information of the current state of affairs, shall be sent within the maximum period of three months of having sent the acknowledgement receipt referred to in the previous point.

In addition to the previous timeframes, all reports shall be kept for the duration of any pending judicial or administrative proceeding based on the incident communicated.

10. Whistleblower Protection

10.1. Communications made cannot, by themselves, serve as a basis for disciplinary, civil or criminal proceedings with respect to the author of the communication, unless after investigation it is concluded that they are deliberate or manifestly unfounded.

10.2. In particular, employees who communicate Irregularities must not be subject to retaliation, discrimination or any other type of unfair treatment, since they benefit from the protection granted under this Policy and Law no. 93/2021, of December 20th establishing the general regime of protection of persons who report breaches.
